In every seed to breathe the flower,
In every drop of dew
To reverence a cloistered star
Within the distant blue;
To wait the promise of the bow,
Despite the cloud between,
Is Faith—the fervid evidence
Of loveliness we see.

Swine Breeders' Field Day
at Lacombe
Saturday, October 17th.

There are many problems in connection with the raising of hogs on the average farm in Alberta. In the spring of 1936 the losses of young pigs were extremely heavy. Most of these losses might have been prevented if proper methods of housing, feeding and management had been used. These methods are effective, and not expensive.

A programme to discuss the problems of the practical farmer is being arranged. Remember the date—Saturday, October 17th—and plan to visit the Experimental Station for this very important Field Day on Swine Raising. Watch this paper for further details and the programme.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Smeaton Leave for England

Entraining Saturday for Calgary on the first part of their journey to Nottingham, England, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Smeaton left this district to make their future home in the Old Country.

The Smeatons have been in the Crossfield district for over seven years, coming to Crossfield from Sunnyside, and have been staunch supporters and workers in the United Church of Canada here.

After a sojourn of two days in Calgary, Mr. and Mrs. Smeaton go east to Montreal and will embark on the Duchess of Bedford for Liverpool, October 2nd.

Before leaving the district, Mrs. Smeaton was the recipient of a surprise party from the Ladies Aid of the Church, and the afternoon was spent in fancy work. On behalf of the Aid, Mrs. M. McKory presented Mrs. Smeaton with a Ladies travelling Suit Case.

Monday last, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. Fleming, another happy surprise party was sprung on our good friends, and the evening spent in singing, games, and contests. This was attended by members of the Church Board and their wives. Mr. Purvis, on behalf of the Board, presented Mr. and Mrs. Smeaton with a very miscellaneous gift. The Rev. E. Longmire, minister of the Church, also spoke on the good fellowship and work done by Mr. and Mrs. Smeaton.

Friday last, a sale was held of their personal and household effects, prices being very fair, and the goods bought in by many bidders. The best wishes of their many friends go with them, that success may crown their efforts in the Old Land, and as the poet says, "Fair days to you, and may each glad tomorrow, bring happiness anew."

Problems Confronting

School Land Purchases

In an interview granted to the press by the Honourable C. C. Ross, Minister of Lands and Mines, he mentioned the problems confronting the purchasers of School Lands, many of whom bought at a time when the financial returns from farm produce was very much in excess of today's prices.

The Minister stated that since taking charge of the Department he has been giving considerable thought to the situation and having decided upon the necessity of granting some specific form of relief, action has been taken by proclamation to reduce the interest on undue instalments of the contracts from six per cent to four per cent, and interest on arrears from seven per cent to five per cent.

The Minister stated that the most outstanding part of the proclamation deals with the assistance that will be given to the purchasers who bought at the peak of prices and who find that through depletion of their resources, they are unable to comply with the terms of the contract. Such purchasers will have the right to make application to the Registrar of The Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act for a compromise, and the Minister explained that the Department would write each contract holder as to how the purchaser should proceed if he wishes to take advantage of the legislation.

Sales that have been cancelled since September 30th, 1930, may be reinstated if the land is available, and such settlers will have the same privilege to bring their cases before the Registrar for a compromise or reduction in the terms of contracts.

The Minister pointed out that this action is consistent with the stand taken by the Government at the recent session in dealing with the reduction and settlement of outstanding debts. Those settlers wishing to obtain advantage of these concessions would, he stated, be well advised to take immediate action so that they may secure the full benefit offered by these amendments.

Board of Trade Resumes Activities

A Banquet and Illustrated Lecture will take place in the Masonic Hall on Monday evening, the 5th day of October, which will be known as "School Fair Night", as on that occasion the executive of the School Fair and the Boys and Girls Club will be the guests of the Board.

Mr. Vallance, of Calgary, will be the guest speaker, and takes for his topic, "A ramble through the Rocky Mountains," illustrating the talk with the use of lantern slides. The gentleman, in question, is a very capable and entertaining speaker, and it behooves every member of the Board to get out and boost for this meeting and accord Mr. Vallance a record audience.

A special invitation is also sent to the teachers of the various boards to come and take in the banquet and lecture. The charge is small, but the material and knowledge to be gained is great.

Let's have a real turnout. This week the Board have received an invitation for the Executive and any other members who might care to make the trip to visit, sometime this fall, the town of Drumheller, as guests of that Board. So as we may be in a position to reply, would those intending to take the trip notify the secretary as soon as possible.

DEDICATION SERVICE AT ST. BERNARD'S

On nearly one of the highest peaks of the island, and in a district in which fruit trees abound, and from which the scenery is delightful, stands the church of St. Bernard, of which the energetic Rev. Adams Cooper is also vicar. On Wednesday the church having been renovated, and the interior made beautiful, the venerable Archbishop's dedicated several new fittings in the church and blessed the new riddles.

The West end of the church has been renewed, the interior painted, dark bay wood placed in various parts inside and the chancel painted pale blue. A new platform has been built for the organ, five new pews put in, the children's corner renovated, and the handsome old lectern from St. Joseph's parish church set up.

Most of the decorations and painting of the interior, have been done by the vicar himself. The curtains adorning the chancel are blue. A new sanctuary carpet has been put down and a new pulpit for the Bishop's chair. A chair in memory of Bernard Clarke was also decorated by the Vicar General.

Among the clergy present were: Rev. Canon Johnson, Revs. F.W.D. Moore, Canon Frederick, Revs. J.M. McConney, W. G. Blackett, Fr. Griffin of British Guiana, Ernest De Coteau of the Ponce Mission, and G. L. Mandeville. The Vicar General delivered a stirring address to a large congregation and spoke of the great pleasure it gave him to be there that afternoon to witness the renovation of the Church which had fallen into disuse, but now rebuilt through the untiring efforts of the vicar. He said that he had preached in every Church of the island, and this was the first occasion he had the privilege of preaching at St. Bernard's. The Church was on one of the highest peaks of the island, and that day he had crowned his period of service by preaching there and dedicating the several new fittings to the honour and glory of God's service. He wondered what joy Rev. Eckel, if he had been alive, would have felt that day. After service, tea was served in the schoolroom.

We congratulate Rev. Adams Cooper for the success he has achieved in restoring the Church for the use of Divine Service again.—Barbados Weekly Illustrated.

The Rev. Adams Cooper was a former Rector of the Crossfield Anglican Church, and will be remembered by many of our readers.

"Where QUALITY and PRICES Meet"

BASEBALL WORLD SERIES POLO GROUNDS and CROSSFIELD

Gathered in front of the new Spartan Radio, resplendent in its fine finished, polished coat, sat the many Ball fans of the District. To judge by the lurid remarks, epithets, criticisms, etc., being bandied, one would judge that what the local fans don't know about the merits of their favourites, isn't worth knowing.

Manager Lim of the Yanks, and manager Bills of the Giants, indulged in one continual battle of words during the broadcast.

Country Elevators AND Grain Marketing

Elevator companies, including the Pools, are members of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange and use it in exactly the same manner and for exactly the same reason. They use it because the futures market is the best method which has been so far devised to protect the farmer and to ensure low handling charges. It is not used by either the Pools or the other elevator companies for the purposes of profit.

The Pooling method, which is the only other method which has been tried to date in Canada, cost the West many millions of dollars. It is no longer seriously advocated, even by those who invented it. If in the future any organization, commission, or government can evolve a system of marketing Canada's crop which will consistently return to the farmer even a fraction of a cent more than he obtains through the present methods, the line elevator companies will be the first to endorse and adopt such a system. At the present time all elevator companies (including the Pools) market grain in exactly the same way because it is the best and cheapest way which has yet been devised.

Fair competition is the farmers' safeguard.

Propaganda by the Pools, through the Western Producer, country newspapers and field meetings, attacking the elevator companies because of marketing methods which the Pools themselves adopt, is untrue and hypocritical and merely designed to abolish the competition which is the farmers' best protection.

TO AVOID ANY FRICTION IS AIM OF THE LEAGUE

Geneva.—France presented a plan for a League of Nations disarmament conference while the league moved to prevent inflammatory speeches from the nations.

France officially notified the league assembly steering committee it would propose convocation of the general committee as a disarmament conference.

The committee, meanwhile, authorized President Saverio Lamas to halt any speaker he thinks guilty of utterances liable to affect adversely international relations.

The first scheduled speakers include Julio Alvarez del Vayo, delegate of the Spanish government; Yvon Dubois, French delegate; and Foreign Secretary Eden of Great Britain.

Del Vayo, it was understood, will address the league on the Spanish civil war.

Premier Mussolini of Italy, it was reported, has been advised to hurry the complete conquest of Ethiopia to fortify his demands that Emperor Haile Selassie's delegation be excluded from the league.

Counselors have urged him, reliable informants said, to subjugate Ethiopia so thoroughly the negus would have no further claim to a capital, such as Gore, or to any jurisdiction, on which to demand rights to Geneva representation.

The negus was said to recognize the danger and to be preparing a last-ditch stand to maintain a realm, however tiny, in Ethiopia. Haile Selassie left for Ethiopia.

Mussolini was told, informed sources said, the league vote to recognize the Ethiopian delegation and to reject the credentials committee's proposal that the world court be asked to rule on Ethiopia's membership, was actually an Italian victory.

Some leaders were convinced, it was reported authoritatively, the world court would have ruled against Italy. The court, it was said, would have held Italy's acquisitions in Ethiopia violated the covenant of the league and, therefore, could not affect Ethiopia's claim to membership.

Mussolini was apprised of this explanation, urged to remain in the league and let time solve the question.

Opposes Immigration Plan

More British Deported Than Enter Canada Convention Is Told

Saskatoon.—In 1933 and 1934 Canada sent more people back than she received from the Old Country and in 1933 alone 4,000 Britishers were deported, M. J. Caldwell, M.P., reminded the 200 delegates to the Saskatchewan immigration and settlement convention, when the pros and cons of renewing immigration were discussed by a number of speakers.

"The present is not the time for immigration in Canada," Mr. Caldwell stated. He was interested in the human, as well as the financial side of the question.

In 1933 and 1934, the member stated, Canada had sent many more Britishers back to the United Kingdom than she had accepted from the Old Country. In 1933 alone, more than 4,000 Britishers had been deported, he said.

Men in public affairs were familiar with the requests from Britishers asking to be deported to the Old Country, Mr. Caldwell asserted.

"I am opposed to any plan of immigration until such time as our Canadian farmers have raised the standard of living, and our youth is given the opportunity which is rightfully theirs," the federal member stated.

Potatoes From Alberta

Northern Part Of Province Has Surplus For Export

Edmonton.—Export of 500 carloads of potatoes from northern Alberta to Ontario, Manitoba and Saskatchewan, will result this fall because Dominion government reports indicate that area was the only part of western Canada with a surplus available for export. It was anticipated the export, first major shipping out of the province in 10 years, will bring district farmers an unexpected revenue of about $250,000.

Hotel accommodation is already being booked in London for the Coronation week next year by Americans anxious not to miss this great event.

Judicial Vacancies Filled

Hon. N. W. Howell Appointed Chief Justice For Ontario

Ottawa.—Making a clean sweep of the judicial vacancies in Ontario the government appointed a chief justice, two judges to the supreme court and six to the county courts. Hon. Newton Wesley Howell, K.C., a veteran Ontario jurist, member of the war-time Unionist government, was selected for the vacancy created by the resignation early this summer of Sir William Mulock.

Tom Ernest Lapointe, minister of justice and acting prime minister, also announced the appointment of W. E. Gladstone Murray, Canadian-born executive of the British Broadcasting Company, and Augustin Pilon of the Polytechnic School, Montreal, as general manager, and assistant general manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

This was in accordance with recommendations of the radio governing board as announced by L. W. Brockington, chairman of the board.

For the two additional supreme court judges requested by the Ontario government, the appointees were Edgardo Chevier, K.C., member of parliament for Ottawa East, and Ainslie W. Greene, K.C., also of Ottawa. To fill the vacancy created in the House of Commons by Mr. Chevier's appointment, writs have been issued for a by-election to be held Oct. 26.

A judicial vacancy in Quebec will be filled at the next cabinet session, but the vacancy in Alberta will not be filled until the return to the capital of Hon. T. A. Cressy, minister of mines and resources, and Hon. J. G. Gardiner, minister of agriculture, both of whom are in western Canada.

Existing civil service vacancies will be left until the return of Prime Minister Mackenzie King from Geneva.

The radio executives, who take office Nov. 2, will receive salaries of $13,000 for the general manager and $12,000 for the assistant. Chief justice of Ontario receives $10,000, the two supreme court judges $9,000, and the county court judges $5,000.

Lord Mayor Receives Praise

For Dignified Way He Conducted Trip In Canada

London.—Sir Percy Vincent, lord mayor of London, presiding over a court of aldermen at the Guildhall, was thanked for the "dignified manner" in which he represented the city of London on his recent tour of Canada.

Sir Vainart Bowater, a former lord mayor, who accompanied Sir Percy, described the warmth of their reception in the Dominion.

He mentioned incidentally that the mayor of Vancouver had not worn his robe and chain for 16 years prior to the visit they paid there in connection with Vancouver's jubilee celebrations. Sir Vainart added that Mayor McGee not only wore the civic insignia to receive Sir Percy but said he was determined to wear it in future.

Planes For Northern Work

Specialty Built For High Speed Photographic Work

Montreal.—The second of three aircraft being built here for the department of national defence for service in the Northwest Territories was put through tests here. The planes are especially built for high speed photographic and transport work and carry sufficient fuel and oil for five and a half hours' work at high altitude.

At the rear of the cabins are mounting for three oblique cameras which photograph automatically through small apertures in the metal body. The aircraft are fitted with float landing gear and the normal wheel undercarriages can also be fitted as well as a special ski undercarriage for winter flying.

Urges Fund For League

Montreal.—A suggestion a large fund, contributed to by all members of the League of Nations, should be placed at the disposal of any league member whose territory is invaded, was advanced by Dr. Hans Simons, of Germany, in a discussion on the European situation and league affairs at a meeting of the Montreal branch of the League of Nations Society.

Settled By Draw

Copenhagen, Denmark.—Government parties pulled a majority of the landing seats out of a "hat" after elections a week ago, left a deadlock for control of the landing, upper house of the Danish parliament, but it was settled when the government coalition drew the lucky slip from a 3,000-year-old bronze-age urn and won 39 seats to 37.

FASCIST FORCES ARE STOPPED BY WALL OF WATER

Madrid.—A 10-foot fall of water, released from Alberche dam by government forces, roared down on a column of Fascists advancing on Madrid and swept many of them to their deaths, it was reported.

The flood, sweeping down from the lifted dam gates near San Martin de Valdegeasias about 36 miles west of the capital, inundated a Fascist camp to a depth of 10 feet.

The government resorted to the desperate measure in an attempt to repel one section of the Fascists' drive on the capital.

Most of the insurgents' ammunition was reported ruined, and many of their pack mules were said to have been drowned.

The Fascists who escaped were understood to have fled to higher ground to the south. They were reported retreating in disorder.

Government officials, deciding to let loose the flood after steel and gunpowder had failed to stem the Fascists' advance on the capital, said 10,000,000 cubic yards of water were released.

They said they believed San Martin de Valdegeasias had been inundated and large stores of insurgent guns and trucks, mules and horses destroyed.

Virtually all able-bodied men between the ages of 18 and 45 were drafted to the militia, meanwhile, as the government sent reinforcements to block the advance of Moorish troops toward Toledo.

"Slightly well aware of the urgency of stopping the insurgent attack on Toledo, the government launched a counter-offensive from Santa Cruz del Retamar which was reported to have swept the Moors back through Quismondo to Maqueda.

Ship Cattle East

Eastern Farmers Buying Cattle For Fattening Purposes

Ottawa.—Possibly 100 eastern Canadian farmers are now on the prairies with the object of purchasing cattle and moving them east for fattening, figures available at the department of agriculture disclosed. Many others have made inquiries and are planning to go west to make purchases. The inquiries came from Ontario, Quebec and Maritime provinces as far east as Prince Edward Island.

A movement of cattle from the west to the east has been going on for years. Last year it ran about 100,000 head, and for the first 27 weeks it totalled 178,284 head. This year it is running behind with a total for the first 27 weeks of 60,865 head. It is expected government assistance will bring the movement at least up to last year's figures and probably higher. One cause of the drop has been poor crops in western Ontario where the largest feeding lots are located.

Milk Survey In Ontario

Farmers To Help Determine Cost Of Production

Ottawa.—A one-year survey in which 1,500 farmers will help the department of agriculture determine the cost of producing milk in Ontario has been started in the province. Objects are to give milk producers' associations complete information on costs so they may deal more effectively with their marketing problems and disclose methods by which costs may be reduced and net returns to farmers increased.

Weather Observations

Airmen To Carry Out Work In North West Territories

McMurray, Alta.—Sub-stratosphere meteorological observations will be made in the North West Territories during the coming winter by three Royal Canadian Air Force men who arrived here by plane from Winnipeg.

The men—Sergt. R. I. Thomas, pilot; Sergt. P. E. Sorenson, co-pilot, and Corp. L. S. Thompson, mechanic, will be assisted by a meteorological observer.

From their base at Fort Smith, N.W.T., about 500 miles north of Edmonton, the airmen will make daily flights when weather conditions permit to a height of 15,000 feet where temperature and other conditions will be automatically recorded on a barograph, thermograph and other equipment carried on the aircraft.

The work is to be carried out for the Dominion meteorological service and the United States weather bureau.

May Ask French Protection

Republic Of Andorra Afraid Of Invasion From Spain

Paris.—The little Republic of Andorra, perched in the mountains between France and Spain, considered appealing to France for protection against threatened invasion by Spanish anarchists.

Dispatches from Perpignan said the Andorran general council indicated it might send a petition to Paris if the situation became more tense before winter snows separate Andorra from their French protectors for six months.

Andorran defences consist of seven armed policemen and a National Guard of 600 mountaineers.

Wiping Out Of Taxes

Cancellation Of Debts In Certain Dry Areas

Lethbridge, Alta.—A widespread cancellation of drought area farmers' debt and interest charges, back taxes and a new agreement governing interest rates on future financing in Saskatchewan will be announced within a few days, Hon. J. G. Gardiner, federal minister of agriculture, said in an address to the board of trade here.

These steps, he said, were agreed upon at a recent conference of federal and Saskatchewan government officials in Regina. He was not prepared to state the exact date up to which the cancellations will be effective, but intimated it would be quite recent.

He said the announcement would come from the Saskatchewan government.

The wiping-out of taxes will include all of those owing to municipal, provincial and federal governments, Mr. Gardiner stated. Since the federal government was responsible for bringing in people to settle in areas where making a living was extremely difficult, the whole Dominion would bear the losses arising out of the debt reduction.

Mr. Gardiner then outlined a plan under which settlers would be moved from non-productive land to better land. The drought areas would become federally-owned and would be converted into pasture.

Amputation Association

Rev. S. E. Lambert Re-Elected President At Convention

Winnipeg.—Capt. Rev. S. E. Lambert, padre of the Christie Street Soldiers' hospital in Toronto, was re-elected president of the Amputations Association of the Great War, as the three-day sessions of the 14th annual convention were brought to a close. Capt. Lambert will serve his 14th term.

G. E. Tomsett, Regina, was elected first vice-president and three Toronto men were returned to the executive council—Capt. E. A. Baker, honorary treasurer, C. J. Brown and Honorary Secretary Richard Myers.

Two new members, J. S. McCormick of Montreal, and F. D. Welch, Vancouver, were elected to the board of directors which also includes W. E. Browne, Ottawa; Robert Wilson, Toronto; C. E. Nutley, Hamilton; Frank Trainer, Winnipeg, and N. M. Callaway, Calgary.

ETHIOPIANS ARE ADMITTED TO THE LEAGUE ASSEMBLY

Geneva.—The credentials committee of the League of Nations has decided to recommend that Ethiopian delegates continue to sit in the assembly, and reversed a previous decision to submit the question of Ethiopia's sovereignty to the world court.

The committee decided in favor of Ethiopian participation in the assembly because of existing doubts as to the delegates' credentials. The Ethiopians, the committee held, should be given the benefit of these doubts.

Haile Selassie and his delegates contend there still is an independent government in Ethiopia, despite annexation of the conquered kingdom by Fascist Italy. On the other hand, the Italians have refused to participate in the league proceedings until Ethiopia is erased from membership.

Just before the decision was reached, Foreign Secretary Eden jumped to his feet and exclaimed:

"Enough of this nonsense! There never has been any sufficient ground to unseat the Ethiopian delegation."

Almost all the small nations on the committee fought for the Ethiopians, with Foreign Commissar Litvinov of Russia also taking a leading role.

At times the discussion became so bitter that one or two states, the names of which were not disclosed, threatened to resign from the league if the Ethiopians were ejected. In some circles, the committee's decision was interpreted as virtually non-recognition of Italy's conquest of Ethiopia.

The effect of these developments upon Italy's attitude may be serious. League sources openly expressed fear that Italy not only will refuse to return to the assembly, but may even resign from the league.

Haile Selassie, the Associated Press learned, rejected a plan under which he would have agreed to withdraw his delegation if any basis for compromise with Italy was reached on the entire Ethiopian problem.

GIVES SUPPORT TO PLAN TO BRING OUT BRITISH SETTLERS

Saskatoon.—British settlers, brought to Saskatchewan under a well-devised plan, would be of benefit in helping develop resources of the province, was the opinion expressed here by ministers of the provincial government in connection with the Saskatchewan immigration and settlement convention.

Premier W. J. Patterson, speaking at a board of trade dinner for the delegates, saw gain to Saskatchewan by the advent of British settlers. He stated he believed that a policy of immigration, avoiding mistakes made in similar policies in the past, could easily be presented.

"To extend our markets is essential to progress in Canada and we cannot do that by sitting tight on our natural resources," said Hon. George Spence, minister of public works. "Great Britain has the money to develop these resources and the population to bring about the development. Unless something of an all-embracing character is done, we will never be rid of the depression."

Mr. Spence spoke before a regular session of the convention.

The early settlement of Saskatchewan had been secured through a vigorous plan of immigration, said Mr. Patterson. There had been many mistakes made, yet many of the immigrants had stood the "real test" of courage, ability and resourcefulness, and had made a great success here.

The advisability of starting an immigration program was questioned by some in Saskatchewan, the premier stated. There were persons who argued that restricted markets and the struggle for existence of those already here were not conducive to the plan. These thinkers had some force, he realized.

Similarly, there were two camps of thought for finding a solution to the present problem. One camp believed restricted production would make the producer richer, and the other believed the wealth of any nation was in the volume of its production.

Personally, the premier stated, he favored the latter view. The world needed much more produce, for production had by no means overcome consumption, and even consumption needed greater development.

"What is there to gain by restriction of wheat production, for instance," Mr. Patterson asked. "If we restrict production, some other nation will increase production."

Again, the speaker argued that the true picture of Canada's position could not be based on the past five years, when world depression as well as drought conditions had been unfavorable but temporary factors.

Canada had, in effect, in recent years, told Great Britain that its people were not needed here and that its goods were not acceptable.

Recently, the premier stated, that attitude had changed. In England, he had found during a recent visit, there was increased friendliness towards the Dominion. A change in trade and wheat policies had done much to foster the spirit, as well as the Vimy pilgrimage and the Hornby plan of immigration, which was being considered by many Britishers seriously.

Outlining how the immigration question was brought before the Saskatchewan legislature last spring, Mr. Patterson said the legislators had not suggested any plan of immigration but had based their plea to the federal house on three principles, that any scheme be financed by Great Britain, that proper reception and care after arrival be given settlers, and that if immigrants failed after a fair trial they be repatriated rather than deported to their native lands.

There had been a deplorable lack of co-operation by Canadians with respect to building of empire in past years, the minister asserted, adding, "Canada must start to accept its obligations as part of the empire."

Free movement of goods and services, of capital and credit, and of populations was vital in empire co-operation and were factors Canada had not been pleased to recognize.

Guardian of Canadian Homes

Canada May Be Called Upon To Assist Great Britain In Rearmament Programme

A possibility that Canada's manufacturing and mining resources will be enlisted to assist Great Britain in accelerating her rearmament programme was under consideration. The government has discovered that the rate of progress has been too slow. There is a shortage of skilled labor in certain essential industries, particularly in aircraft construction, and it is felt that Britain will be compelled to give contracts to Canadian firms.

Britain has not forgotten the assistance lent by Canada during the last war, particularly in submarine construction, but at present none of the leading munitions firms have any knowledge of contracts likely to go to Canada. All they will admit is that the possibility must be seriously considered.

The manufacturing of plywood for airplanes from Canadian logs will begin at Manchester within the next few weeks. Until recently plywood has been imported from Germany. It is now understood that the necessary machinery for manufacturing plywood has been imported, and under the supervision of German experts a factory will be constructed which will more than supply British aircraft requirements by use of Canadian logs. In the essential rearmament industries, with the exception of aircraft, there is a good supply of labor. Workers, however, are reluctant to leave their homes for areas where Britain's new munition works are being established. The munition bases are being constructed in places which are far removed from open air attacks such as the west of England, Wales, Hereford, Pembroke, Cornwall and Ulster.

The skilled laborers from Glasgow and London and the northeast coast do not want to leave their homes, and for this reason, as much as any other, Canadian manufacturers may be enlisted in the rearmament programme.

It is expected that the Labor party at its next conference, will in spite of bitter dissension among its own group, agree to support the government's rearmament programme.

Clothed In Milk

Milk Seems To Have Been Put To Many Uses

No, it is not a printer's error for "milk." And here is the story, as told by Dr. E. L. Herrington, of Cornell University. It seems that ten quarts of milk are skimmed to make one quart of cream. The problem of what to do with the nine quarts of skim-milk has long worried the farmers and dairymen. Of course they could feed it to the livestock, but there was taste. So the chemists took the matter up. One of the widest industrial uses of skim-milk is paper-making. The glossy surface of expensive coated paper contains milk casein, pressed and dried. Billiard balls, too, are amongst its products. But Mussolini's chemists have beaten them all, for Dino Grandi, Italian ambassador to Great Britain, strode along the London streets the other day in a suit that looked like wool, but that was actually made of milk. Italian chemists say they can now make casein into fabrics like cotton, wool or silk at lower cost than from the natural fibres. Thus it comes to pass that a man may be clothed—as well as fed—with milk. And all we need say about it is what old Biddy Callaghan would be saying if we could call her back and tell her the story: "Och, childer dear, sure wonderers will never cease!"—The New Outlook.

Becoming Motorized

Flin Flon, northern Manitoba mining town on the Manitoba-Saskatchewan border, is becoming motorized now that there are prospects of a road to drive on. There have been no motor-cars there because of lack of highways, but the Flin Flon-Beaver Lake road across the border into Saskatchewan is nearing completion. The road is only 15 miles long, but Beaver Lake is a summer resort and residents are becoming automobile-minded.

Sees Return Of Normal Times

Roger Babson Looks For Marked Recovery In Business

Roger W. Babson says business, after six years of depression, has at last reached normal, and that "for the next two or three years I am bullish on everything except democracy."

"Of course, I am bullish on democracy for the long pull," the business statistician told the advertising club of Boston. "Democracy will be the ultimate form of government. But today, due to unprincipled and selfish politicians, democracy has collapsed throughout pretty much of the entire world. Only a spiritual revival can prevent such a collapse in America."

For the fourth time since he began studying business curves 35 years ago, Babson said it had crossed the normal line and is back again to the average of 1925, '26 and '27.

"If the heavy industries and general building construction were active, business would be far above the normal line, approaching 1929 highs," he added.

He said 1936 will be the best since 1929 for automobiles and steel, and among lines equaling or exceeding 1929 peaks he cited retail trade, power production, cement and electrical appliances.

He predicted a sharp advance in the price of real estate, commodities and stocks, wages and interest rates, larger farm crops and a rise in railroad traffic.

Three Great Castles

Tourists Attracted By Magnificent Buildings In Bavaria

The three great castles which Ludwig II. of Bavaria exhausted his country's resources to build are today supplying the state with a tidy income, and hundreds of German and foreign visitors wander through the magnificent buildings, paying a small admission charge for viewing the eccentric King's old properties. First of the castles Ludwig built is Neuschwanstein, a replica of a medieval stronghold. The King had it decorated with scenes from Wagner's operas, and nearby he constructed a lodge with a large tree in the main room, representing the scene in the first act of "Die Walkure." The castle cost $30,000,000 and took thirteen years to build.

Toys For Tots Are Fun To Make

PATTERN 5633

Three little kittens lost their mittens and here they are looking very happy anyhow. And well they may for they know they'll bring joy to many a kiddie as well as to the needle-woman who'll find them made in no time. They, as well as the duck, are made of two pieces with the clothes separate. Of course, one kitten alone makes an attractive toy, too. In pattern 5633 you will find a pattern and directions for making a 7 x 9 1/2 inch kitten (they are all the same) and the 8 x 10 inch duck as well as all the clothes and material requirements.

A Wrong Headline

Gave Name The "Vinegar Bible" To Early Oxford Edition

The "Vinegar Bible" printed at Oxford by J. Baskett in 1716-7 takes its name from a headline of Luke, chapter 20, which appears as "The Parable of the Vinegar." Instead of the "Vineyard." But the version had so many inaccuracies it became known as the "Basket-full of printers' errors."

The Oxford edition of 1805 became famous as the "to remain" edition. A proofreader was doubtful about a comma in Galatians 4:29 and the copy came back with a marginal note, "to remain." Thinking this meant for insertion in the text the printer made the verse read, "But as then he that was born after the flesh persecuted him that was born after the Spirit to remain even so as it is now."

Other errors in the "to remain" Bible include, "Rebecca arose and her camels" instead of damsels, "Who hath ears to see" and "The fishes (instead of fishers) shall stand upon it."

Art Treasures Destroyed

Communists And Bandits Ravage Provinces On Tibet Border

Ancient Tibetan art relics reported to be valued at millions of pounds sterling, have been wantonly destroyed by hordes of Communists and bandits infesting the borders of China and Tibet, and ravaging the provinces of Kokonor and Sikang. Approximately three-quarters of the Lama temple in which these treasures were kept were pillaged and destroyed by the Red raiders, whose depredations have led to the world's loss of art as ancient as the Tibetan hills.

An effort to save Tibetan art for posterity, however, is being made by a number of American archaeologists of the West China Union University Museum, who are purchasing many treasures brought here by Tibetans fleeing from the interior.

No Real Answer

Sharks Will Attack And Kill But Not Always

Do sharks attack and kill men? There is probably no question over which there has been more dispute. The truth appears to be that this question cannot be answered with a simple yes or no. Colonel Hugh D. Wise, U.S. Army, retired, has some interesting opinions on this subject, as shark-fishing has been a life-time hobby with him. He has pursued his favorite sport in many waters in various parts of the world.

"Sharks," he says, "do not go forth to stalk men as cats do mice. Fish are the regular victims of even the most predatory sharks, and man, though probably an acceptable meal, would be a most unexpected addition to their menus. Nevertheless, sharks do occasionally get him."

"There must be a more solid foundation than superstition and imagination for the general and real fear shared by practically all watermen, though few of them are the cases of sharks attacks within their own personal knowledge."

"There are countless instances of the eating of dead men by sharks, and there are many reports of their attacks upon living men. Both our war department and our navy department officially report several such killings. Nevertheless, I have repeatedly seen soldiers from transported in shark-infested waters, swimming unharmed about the ship and thousands of tourists watch natives diving for pennies at tropical ports, where harbors are teeming with sharks, without ever seeing a diver harmed by one."

"It is quite necessary to realize that there is a difference between shark bite and shark attack, and that lack of caution may, and often does, result in severe laceration from the teeth or in terrible laceration from the tail of a frightened or wounded shark."

He cites numerous instances in which men were attacked and devoured and tells of cases where not only the men were attacked, but also where sharks grabbed the oars or outriggers of boats.

New Ration For Birds

Scientists At Philadelphia Zoo Double Output Of Eggs

By a new scientific feeding basis, scientists at the Philadelphia zoo have been able to double the output of eggs from their hens and birds during the past year. The egg production has increased to such an extent that officials are in need of an incubator for hatching purposes.

The method is to feed the birds and hens what is known as basic ration No. 1, which consists of grain and vegetable meals, dried milk, mineral and cod liver oil.

One of the most remarkable cases at the zoo concerns the griffin vulture who hadn't laid an egg in 12 years. Fed basic ration No. 1 with a little meat, she laid an egg.

Echo Foretells Weather

Boatmen In Bavaria Believe It Can Predict Storm

St. Bartholomew, whose festival has just fallen, has a good reputation as weather saint, the News of the World comments. According to proverbial lore: "All the tears that St. Swithun can cry, St. Bartholomew's mantle wipeth dry." As a weather prophet, St. Bartholomew is invoked all the year round by boatmen on a dangerous lake in Bavaria. Before venturing out they cry, "Holy Bartholomew, shall I return? Say 'Yes'." The echoes answer "Ya" a dozen times in fair weather, but remain silent when storms are brewing.

Trying To Obtain Credit

Italy is trying to obtain credit in London, but the British banks are said to be turning the cold shoulder. Premier Mussolini has such a nice way of backing up a request for a loan. While Canada as a whole will harvest a light grain crop this year, fortunately there are normal crops throughout the Maritime Provinces, in Quebec, and in certain areas in each of the other provinces. However, these crops will scarcely offset the shortages which exist in other parts of the country.

By judicious planning, states the Dominion Seed Commission, even a light crop may be used to advantage, but no serious inconveniences will be entailed. In so planning, first thought must be given to the seed supply for the following year, he explained. Indeed, seed supply is the prime consideration, whether the crop be light or abundant. When, as in 1936, the bulk of grain from which seed is to be selected is much less than normal, the matter of seed selection is paramount and should receive the early and careful consideration of farmers.

Some crops harvested may be almost entirely unfit for seed owing to lack of weight or because of injury to germination through weathering, but on most Canadian farms, at least part of the grain harvested will be of a quality fit for seed, if properly cleaned and graded.

Farmers who take stock of their grain supply soon after harvest and reserve, wherever possible, a portion of the best quality of their wheat, oats, barley or other grain for seed next year will not only benefit themselves but will perform a valued public service.

Planned His Own Meals

King Edward Puts Himself On Diet To Keep Fit

King Edward VIII, long the world's leader in men's fashions, has "gone on a diet" to keep the royal waistline down to its usual slenderness, according to close associates.

"The King worked out the details of his diet himself."

Since following it, the King has lost twelve pounds and that his health and efficiency have improved 50 per cent.

King Edward VII, the present monarch's grandfather, became corpulent in his later years. This is said to have made a deep impression on his grandson.

The King's diet: Breakfast—Fruit, toast and tea with milk.

Lunch—Fruit (usually apples) and tea.

Dinner—Fish or meat and green vegetables.

His Majesty has a new rule never to drink alcohol before evening. Then he usually takes whisky and soda rather than cocktails. He carries with him his own special blend of tea.

"The cause of most ailments is overeating," the King is reported to have told friends. "Most men eat too much."

Women In Austria

Many Go Into Professions Formerly Left To Men

Austrian women claim to be the most independent in the world. They say that in an emergency they could run a whole city in every detail without male assistance.

Of 3,000,000 working Austrians 1,000,000 are women, according to official statistics. Here are some examples of the numbers of women who have found their way into professions previously regarded as the monopoly of men: 35,689 farmers, 286 physicians, 214 gardeners, 201 mechanics, 101 chauffeurs, 36 carpenters, 22 engineers, 19 master locksmiths, 18 cinema operators, 4 horse-dealers.

In addition there are thousands of women civil servants and clerks.

Coronation Ceremonies

Question Is Raised As To Whether Queen Mary Will Attend

The question whether Queen Mary will attend the coronation of her son, King Edward VIII., next May is being discussed with some animation. The answer seems to lie entirely in the personal desires of Queen Mary and His Majesty.

There is no question in England for a widowed queen attending the coronation of her husband's successor but amongst members of the royal family of the present and immediately preceding generation precedent often has been followed.

Queen Alexandra, widow of King Edward VII., did not attend the coronation of King George V. and Queen Mary in 1911, although there was talk at the time that her absence was solely against her own will.

The present position is somewhat different, as there is no queen consort to the crown.

Must Take Periodical Rest

Workers Who Fill Radium Needles Have Tiring Job

If you had to take three months' rest with pay every time you worked three months, wouldn't you like it? Maybe yes, and maybe no. Not if you had a job filling needles with radium. The workers have to stand behind lead screened cases, into which only their hands go. Minute particles of radium salts are coaxed into small, specially constructed needles. These are later used for implantation in diseased tissues.

Two Sides To Story

Human Body Not Fitted For Modern Cruise For Speed

Four thousand miles, from New York to Central Europe, in five days! That was the record achieved by the recent test in which a specially-chartered Imperial Airways air-liner met the liner, Queen Mary, at Cherbourg, and flew with a party of passengers via Paris, Munich and Vienna to Budapest. As soon as the ocean liner reached Cherbourg, the party which were to make the 1,020-mile flight to Budapest were conveyed by motor launch to the aerodrome where the air-liner was waiting. Within an hour and a quarter they were in Paris, a distance of 209 miles. Zurich, 306 miles, was reached at lunch-time. In less than an hour they reached Munich, then on to Vienna and Budapest, at a speed reaching 170 miles an hour. A radio-teaching service now enables passengers by air, sea or land to keep in touch with each other and with the world. Government officials flying along Empire routes can receive and send messages while they travel. Business heads can keep in touch with their headquarters throughout the journey. But there is another side to all this story of ever-increasing speed. The human body was not built for working or playing at the rate suggested by this way of living.—The New Outlook.

Circumstantial Evidence

British Author Gives Reason For Dismissing Rumor About King Edward's Marriage

Renewed rumors that King Edward VIII. of England would get married, maybe to Princess Irene of Greece, sister of King George II. of Greece, was indignantly dismissed by John Drinkwater, noted British author who writes a weekly piece about Edward for a London magazine.

On the subject of the King's marriage Drinkwater writes: "We have reasonable circumstantial evidence that the King at present is content playing no such step. His new suite at Buckingham Palace, in the preparation of which he has taken elaborate care, is designed for the accommodation of his existing bachelor establishment. That in itself should be an indication of his intentions."

Drinkwater continues: "If the King decides to marry, official announcements will be made immediately. Anyone outside the King's family circle probably has no right to information is not worth listening to."

His Favorite Song

King Edward Requested Three Encores In Vienna Club

King Edward has a favorite song—and it deals with the rustic life of Austrian peasants.

His Majesty heard the song in a night club in Vienna and requested three encores after which he tipped the performer liberally. "That's my favorite song," he said. The song, in dialect, refers to the lower Austrian village of Langenlins, near Vienna.

To Fight Jap Menace

Russia Is Building In Secret A New Submarine Fleet

Russia is concentrating a new and secret submarine fleet at Vladivostok, reliable sources disclosed—to guard against the possibility of attack from Japan.

The submarines are the "mystery fleet" of the Pacific. They are unparalleled in regular naval manuals. No prying eyes are permitted to fathom their design.

Soviet officials admit no specific number. Informers estimate that between 40 and 50 submarines are stationed there. Japanese sources state 80 are based within the Vladivostok area.

The submarines are new, small and easy to conceal, capable of quick manoeuvres—this much is known, observers say.

They are believed intended chiefly for defensive purposes because of their small size. They are subject to no restrictions or treaties, however, because the Soviets retained a free hand on construction in the Pacific. Intended for the Pacific, informants related, they were manufactured in European Russia. Knocked down for delivery they were transported 6,000 miles to secret shipyards at Vladivostok, these informants continued, and assembled. New personnel is being trained constantly to handle the craft as their numbers increase, it was learned.

The Soviets have no capital ships, cruisers or destroyers in the Pacific, it was stated. But an army estimated at 500,000 men is stationed in the far eastern territory to back up submarine and aerial defenses.

Have Local Tunnel

Engineering Students At Oklahoma Can Test High Winds

University of Oklahoma engineering students will have a chance this school year to find out things about a 250-mile-an-hour wind.

A new tunnel, eighty-five feet in length is near completion on the campus. A 400-horsepower engine, using natural gas as fuel, will drive the wind through the steel tunnel so research workers at the other end can find out what happens under certain conditions.

Works Progress Administration technicians constructed the tunnel at a cost of $10,000. It was designed primarily for research in aerodynamics. It will be used in testing the wind resistance of airplanes, automobiles, trains and boats, according to Joseph Liston, associate professor of mechanical engineering. Addition of the tunnel to the school's facilities will enable it to offer new courses in airplane testing and aerodynamics research.

Something Worth Guarding

Democracy Protects People And Gives Them Every Freedom

Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian high commissioner in London, told members of the Canadian Club at a luncheon meeting in Toronto that the trend in Europe brings home the fact to British peoples that democracy was not just a textbook word.

While the democratic form of government has been thrown overboard in countries where it was given a half-hearted trial, and tendencies are either to the extremes of either right or left with dictatorships following in the wake, it is noteworthy that in those countries under the British flag "rule by the people and for the people" is more jealously guarded than ever.

The British Empire and the United States still represent the main bulwark against undue curtailment of liberty. The freedom we enjoy is something that cannot be valued too highly.

We have religious liberty, freedom of the press, a generous measure of free speech. Moreover, when a government isn't doing what it should, we elect another in its place to carry out the will of the people. That is a combination of privileges worth while guarding jealously.—Kitchen Record.

Treasures From Japan

Priceless Objects Being Loaned For Exhibition In Boston

Two of the great cultural institutions of the United States, the Boston Museum of Fine Arts and Harvard University, have been honored by the Japanese Emperor.

As a tribute to the educational centres, Japan is allowing the exhibition in Boston of some of her priceless art treasures. The exhibit is to continue until October 25.

Besides the examples of painting and sculpture on loan from the Imperial household and Japanese museums and art schools, there are many valuable Japanese art treasures owned by the Boston Museum. It was because of the great interest the museum of fine arts has shown in Japanese art for more than 50 years, and because of the tercentenary of Harvard that the treasures were allowed to come to Boston as a tribute of the Japanese people.

The collection consists of 136 objects. They represent the finest in Japanese art from the beginning of Buddhist art in Japan in the seventh century to the close of the Tokugawa period in the middle of the nineteenth century.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

OCTOBER 4

THE SPREAD OF CHRISTIANITY

Golden text: Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all the nations. Matthew 28:19.

Lesson: Acts 15:36, 16:15; Romans 15:19-21

Devotional reading: Hebrews 11: 8-10.

Explanations And Comments

The First Converts in Europe, Acts 16:13-15. There could have been no synagogue in Philippi, or Paul would have gone there on the Sabbath. Beyond the city limits by the river there was a place of prayer, and thither Paul turned his footsteps to meet a company of women, among them Lydia, a prosperous merchant from Thyatira, who dealt in purple-dyed garments. She was a Jewish proselyte, for it is said of her that she worshipped God. Paul gave his message to these women, and the Lord opened her heart to give heed unto the things which were spoken by Paul; and she believed the good news, and with her household was baptized.

Lydia brought the missionaries to make her house their headquarters, and the word of God grew in the city. Always a marked characteristic of the early church: 1 Peter 4:9; Romans 16:1; 1 Thessalonians 5:10; 3 John 8. Paul's Pioneer Work, Romans 15:19-21. Moffatt's translation makes these verses clearer: I will not make free to speak of anything except what Christ has accomplished by me in the way of securing the obedience of the Gentiles, by my words and by my deeds, by the force of miracles and marvels, by the power of the Spirit of God. Thus from Jerusalem right round to Illyricum across Asia Minor and the Aegean to Illyricum behind Beroea, I have been able to complete the preaching of the gospel of Christ. My ambition always being to preach it only in places where there had been no mention of Christ before, that I might not build on foundations laid by others, but that (as it is written) "They should see who never had learned about him, and they who had never heard in his should understand."

"Paul seemed like a tent-maker of the lives of men, who had no sooner begun to weave a piece of canvas and had got the pattern of warp and woof prepared than he was driven away to start again and to be interrupted once more. How futile it seemed! But what really happened was that instead of Paul completing his tent at one place, he left at one centre after another men and women who had caught his pattern and his plan and would work it out after he had left them. He was the scout riding on perilous work ahead of the main army; the heroic pioneer missionary." (Basil Mathews).

Home Rule For India

Provincial Autonomy To Come In April, 1937

The Marquess of Linlithgow, viceroy of India, said in his initial address to both houses of the Indian legislature that the stage was set for provincial autonomy in April, 1937. He added there was a strong probability that the temporary period between that achievement and the inauguration of federation in India would be of short duration.

The government of India bill, passed through the British parliament in 1935, provided for these changes. Appraising this prospect, the new viceroy said: "It is more impressive by reason of its contrast with the ominous background of the contemporary world. While in Europe has arisen an array of dictatorships, Great Britain and India are about to initiate an experiment of representative government which for breadth of conception is without a parallel in history."

Airways Traffic Control

United States Uses Radio To Avoid Congestion In Air Lanes

The United States has finally taken over the traffic control of its air lanes.

It hasn't reached the no-parking stage yet, but the bureau of air commerce is rapidly setting up an airways traffic control system which directs 'planes as the policeman at the corner bosses automobiles.

Each station has a large map showing the air routes in and out of airports. A couple of men study maps, ear-phones over their heads and their eyes fixed on a sea of tiny wooden tabs representing ships.

Along half a dozen routes, measured in inches instead of miles, 'planes move at various rates of speed.

One of the watchers sees six 'planes moving on an airport within a few minutes of one another. Methodically he takes charge of the situation.

By radio he pushes the nearest one down to a lower level, the next a level a little higher than the rest, the third to a still higher level and so on. If this is not sufficient to avoid congestion, he reduces the speed of one or two.

Nagging Will Cause Sickness

Medical Research Council Reaches This Decision After Survey

A higher sickness rate is likely to prevail in offices where the atmosphere is fretted with nagging than in those where a harmonious atmosphere exists, the British Medical Research Council has concluded after a survey.

"A general attitude of grouching among workers is a good medium for the cultivation of disease germs," the Council states. "When employees feel they receive justice and consideration there is mental environment that will prevent the easy yielding to every chance of sickness."

One cause quoted is that of a company employing a number of stenographers doing the same work. It was found that during a recent influenza epidemic most of the girls in one office were away sick, while in another there were few absent. The head of the first office was declared to be a petty nagger, while the head of the other was a person with a sunny disposition.

A Dangerous Plaything

Many Children Have Been Blinded By Toy Guns

The air-gun or B.B. gun and the sling-shot, so coveted by boys and so freely abused by certain conscienceless business houses, are responsible not only for the death of hundreds of beautiful and useful birds, but for sad and permanent injuries to others. Thou Shalt Not Love

A NOVEL BY —
GEORGIA GRAIG

Advance notices had been plentiful and alluring about the event at which "Play-Girl," was to make her debut, take off her mask, as it were, and face the world she had flouted. She had been living in New York for some time, the newspapers discovered—with the help of Michael Fairbourne in charge of the Tarrance Publishing Company's publicity department—and because she had become the most-talked-of, and up to then, retiring, of all anonymous celebrities, it was fitting that she should come out of that retirement with a flourish of publicity trumpets.

Everybody was curious about "Play-Girl." Some insisted that she would be discovered to be some sex-starved and disappointed old maid who had soothed her repressions through the imagery of her book. Others voted for a blasé divorcee—several were openly mentioned—while still others stated there was no "Play-Girl" at all; they got it from authentic sources, of course, but that the whole book was a symposium of collected experiences which had been ghosted by the firm's own Beatrice Fairbourne, who they were assured, fat and well past fifty with several quite up and coming grandchildren. It was hard for anyone to believe that there really existed in the flesh any young and beautiful woman who could have stinned as violently as "Play-Girl," and then cold-bloodedly and analytically have written about her experiences, playing with them with the same skill that a surgeon exhibits in wielding a scalpel.

At all events, it was inevitable that everyone would be among the first to see "Play-Girl" when the Tarrance Company introduced her to an eagerly awaiting public.

On the night of Starr's debut, therefore, the grand ball room at Pierre's was crowded. Everybody who was anybody socially, and modern enough to be seen where "Play-Girl" was seen, was there. Hol pol would get their chances later, and have an opportunity to chase after her when she went to theatres and night clubs, pressing upon her their autograph books as though she were a movie celebrity. In fact, before "Play-Girl" made her appearance, she was more exploited than any cinema star, for while they only portrayed the emotions of stories, "Play-Girl" had lived hers. And still lived to tell the story.

With all the fanfare preceding her, Starr made a poised, effective entrance the night of her debut, descending the steps from the balcony to the ballroom, scarlet-tipped fingers resting lightly on the arm of Michael Fairbourne.

Her gown was a seductive sheath of clinging black chiffon velvet, daintily cut, a starting for the misty pallor of her face. She had been sitting on one of her low chairs beside an invalid table when Michael had come for her and he had stared. Starr recalled how he had stared his eyes, looking for her, surveying her from her cloud of black hair to the table edge. She had asked him, at the surprised look in his eyes:

"D-don't you like my frock?"

And Michael: "I was just looking for it."

It was that kind of debut frock, a daring modiste's triumph.

Her face, with the camellia skin, was as perfect as a cameo carved out of ivory. Her mouth was a palisade, scarlet smile. The long black eyes—so perfect to carry out all those stories about her royal Egyptian ancestry—were as deeply mysterious as those of any pictured priestess. And a soft mass of unruined, cloudy black curls added an oddity naive note to a picture of worldly sophistication. The one touch of color was the enameled necklace and bracelet which at a glance suggested of fabulous worth as antiques.

That was how Starr Ellison looked on the occasion of her debut into the glittering night life of New York, highly social, or otherwise. Starr Ellison, the infamous "Play-Girl."

A long murmur of interest that almost held a touch of awe greeted the arrival of the astonishingly young woman who had at last cast off her anonymity and a sensational burst of publicity. It broke imme-

YOU MAY WIN A VALUABLE PRIZE

We want a slogan for Ogilvie Royal Household Flour and for the best ones submitted during this contest will award prizes as outlined above. Read the simple contest rules and send in your entry. You may win a valuable cash prize.

There's a treat in store also for you if you've never tried this popular brand of flour—Royal Household. It is a flour of the first quality—good for bread, cakes and pastry. It's triple-tested—tested for wheat quality before milling, tested for flour quality during milling and tested for baking quality after milling, all before you buy. Get a bag today.

IN CASH PRIZES FOR THE BEST SLOGANS FOR ROYAL HOUSEHOLD FLOUR

216 PRIZES TO BE AWARDED!

Here Are the Simple Rules:

1 Use a plain sheet of paper and write out your slogan of not more than 10 words. Write your name and address clearly at the bottom and on the other side of the sheet write the name and address of the store where you purchase your Royal Household Flour.

2 You may submit as many slogans as you desire, but with each slogan send the words "Royal Household" cut from the small leaflet in every bag of Royal Household Flour. Or you may send in a reasonably accurate facsimile of same.

This is What You Do

Merely write a slogan of not more than ten words relating to Royal Household Flour and good words to describe this favorite brand. It's easy to do. Here are a few examples: "Best by Triple Test", "Made by the Master Millers" or "A Guarantee of Uniform Baking Results". You may send in as many slogans as you wish, providing you follow the simple rules below.

3 This contest will close on November 30th, 1935. All entries must be postmarked not later than that date.

4 Address your entry to "The $1450 Prize Contest, The Ogilvie Flour Mills Co., Limited" and mail it to the nearest Ogilvie office as listed.

5 This Contest is restricted to RESIDENTS OF CANADA ONLY. Employees of The Ogilvie Flour Mills Co., Ltd., and their families are not eligible to compete.

6 In case of a tie the prize money will be equally divided. The committee of judges is composed of three independent, disinterested persons in no way connected with The Ogilvie Flour Mills Company Limited and their decisions will be final. No correspondence will be entered into and all slogans submitted will become the property of The Ogilvie Flour Mills Co., Limited.

RETAILERS

You share in this, too. The retailers named by the first six prize winners will each receive $25.00 cash.

diately into little individual murmurs.

From the men:

"Gorgeous!"

"I'd like to meet her!"

"I've got to meet her! No long distance worshipping for me!"

"Snappy number, eh, what?"

"If there's a good Egyptian sample, no wonder old Marc Antony went haywire!"

From the women:

"Brazen hussy!"

"You wouldn't think she'd dare to come here or any place else with the reputation she's got!"

"As if it isn't bad enough to have lived the kind of life she's lived without writing her experiences for everybody to read!"

"I can well believe that about her Egyptian blood. They've always been decadent. I've read!"

"And they say that terrible book has made her a fortune, my dear!"

It was quite natural that some of the remarks should reach the girl on the steps, but she betrayed no embarrassment. Black eyes beneath unbleached, long, dusky lashes swept the ballroom with a glance of contemptuous mockery, with an odd, disdainful aloofness with which some long-gone princess might have looked on her slaves.

Her painted smile never wavered. She turned and whispered to the man at her side something which her audience took to be one of the sarcastic witticisms of the variety with which her book was spiced.

What Starr Ellison actually said was:

"Michael-Hassan, I'm scared! My legs feel wobbly. I don't think I can walk a step farther."

Warm gray eyes reassured her. Michael patted her hand. Scared little siren with the heart of a child. He hadn't thought of it in that light before. . . Didn't know the thought had been coming to him by degrees during their intimacy of the preparation days—He had been preferring to remember where he had found her—Rot, all of it! She had been a La Luna habitue. . . "Nough said."

He whispered tensely:

"Keep your courage, kid. You're doing great. Cleopatra herself couldn't have knocked them any deader!" Then his eyes narrowed as he shot her a quick glance. "And for the love of mud, don't call me 'Hassan' . . . Some of them might not understand that."

Starr's long eyes passed over him slowly.

"I understand, Has—Michael. Don't let it worry you. Everybody will understand that your interest in 'Play-Girl' is because you're so loyal to the interests of your firm."

Michael flushed at the unexpected rebuff, but said nothing. Perhaps he had made a mistake in assuming with the girl an air of camaraderie. After all, theirs was a most meticulous business arrangement.

In short order Starr was introduced ed to more people than she could ever hope to remember. It was bewildering. She was conscious all the time, too, of an undercurrent of antagonism, disapproval in too many cases. She knew she was being measured by her reputation. The kiss-and-tell girl.

Men ogled her, drinking in her fragile loveliness. Some of them managed to inject an undertone of suggestiveness beneath their most casual remarks.

Starr understood. They were wondering how far they could go; they were trying her out. They were fancying themselves in the role of this famous beauty's newest play-partner. She, who had never had a love affair in her life, could have taken her pick of twenty lovers who night had she chosen to offer the slightest encouragement.

It was strange, this being the centre of attraction. It was a strange undertaking upon which she had embarked. Starr was most uncertain in her own mind whether this kind of "playing" was a game worth the candle of luxurious living. For six months. But she had to go on. Must!

Starr felt a hand draw her from out a circle of curious admirers and turned to face Michael. And a girl. In the girl's eyes was that touch of interest that is usually in the butterfly of a juvenile scientist with a butterfly on a pin. The girl smiled oddly and slowly.

"So you are 'Play-Girl'?" she drawled. "Well, I am certainly interested to meet you!"

Starr heard Michael murmuring the name of Stephanie Dale in the moment she noticed that Stephanie substituted "interested" for the conventional "pleased." There was an unpleasant feeling in the impetuous voice; further unpleasantness in her haughty mien.

She made her remark much in the manner she might have said, "How interesting!" viewing the freaks in a side-show through a jeweled lorgnette.

The girl Michael wanted to marry was a slim, pink and white blond. Her eyes were as brilliantly blue as sapphires, and as cold. She wore all white, and looked like a pale hostess flower against Starr's vivid coloring.

Starr felt a vague quickening of her pulses. Of all the people she had met this night, Stephanie Dale was the first to register indelibly in her consciousness.

Duplicates of Crown Jewels

London Firm Busy Filling Orders For Coronation Display

The "crown jewels" of England are coming to America—in cargo lots.

In fact, if the United States should decide to enthronize a king any time within the next few months there will be enough glittering crowns on hand to outfit a whole royal family.

With King Edward VIII's coronation set for next May, a London firm is busy turning out duplicates of the famous British crown jewels.

Scores of orders have come from American cities for display in connection with next year's coronation ceremonies, while dozens of others have come from Australia, New Zealand, Canada and South Africa.

Except that the "gems" are glass and the "gold" is imitation, the crowns are identical with the historical jewels which are kept under heavy guard in the Tower of London.

Find Precious Stones

Claim Made That Diamonds And Rubies Can Be Mined In Edmonton Area

Diamonds and rubies can be mined within Edmonton's city limits. This is the belief of Ferdinand Pomahac, a contractor who claims to have found rough crystals he believes stones.

Mr. Pomahac, who has visited diamond fields in South Africa, said the crystals would cut glass in the same manner as a diamond. He displayed a stone which he contends is a genuine ruby and so appraised by an Edmonton jeweler.

Location of the find is withheld by the "city prospector" who declares he has a valuable find. He intends to acquire rights to the property and develop the field.

Pomahac made a study of geology in Germany and is convinced he will produce diamonds and rubies in commercial quantity. Part of any financial benefits accruing from the venture will be used to care for sick children in Edmonton hospitals, he says.

Yanks one up. This was nothing, however, to the shock Bill Miller got up in Olds, when the resounding shouts of the Crossfield Giants fans hit him, when in the fifth, Bartlett tied the score also with a home run, and Mel Ott gave the Giants the lead in the sixth. (Probably Bill was cheering too, don't know his preference this year. Ed.)

The eighth inning was easily the outstanding one, when smart play on the part of Bill Terry and his men, made a smart double and then won on in their half to score four times.

Tears and groans, smiles and cheers, greeted the final pitch as the fans of the winning Giants broke forth effusively; collecting today, but what of to-morrow. Ah, says the Yanks, that's another story.

Yanks one up. This was nothing, however, to the shock Bill Miller got up in Olds, when the resounding shouts of the Crossfield Giants fans hit him, when in the fifth, Bartlett tied the score also with a home run, and Mel Ott gave the Giants the lead in the sixth. (Probably Bill was cheering too, don't know his preference this year. Ed.)

The eighth inning was easily the outstanding one, when smart play on the part of Bill Terry and his men, made a smart double and then won on in their half to score four times.

Tears and groans, smiles and cheers, greeted the final pitch as the fans of the winning Giants broke forth effusively; collecting today, but what of to-morrow. Ah, says the Yanks, that's another story.

BOX SCORE
Yanks: 0-0-1-0-0-0-0 1 7 2
Giants: 0-0-0-0-1-0-4-x 6 9 1
